Brief presentation of the company

The Zanoni family has cultivated vineyards and produced wines in the Valpolicella region since the early 1900's. Since 1998, Pietro Zanoni has been carrying on the tradition, crafting wines made from grapes produced on his estate.

The roughly 6.5 hectares of vineyards are divided into three properties in the Valpolicella, between the hills north of Verona. They are situated in Avesa, Parona and Quinzano, where the new winery is also located in the district of Zovo.

The vineyards have been newly updated, and have been converted to a high-density guyot trellis system. At località Zovo, the favourable hillside location and unique soil characteristics combine to produce wines of distinction. The Vineyards pest and fungal management done in targeted matter and the between the fields grass is sown for organic fertilisation.

Rigorous work in the vineyard is aimed to produce a reduced yield per hectare and to help each bunch to achieve perfect ripeness. While producing solely Valpolicella wines particular attention is given to respect its particular territorial identity and to its unique grape varieties. Therefore we propose a well recognisable interpretation of this region Wines and its denomination.
